exting my approval of The intermountain is balled; since its establishment in this linesse, I will estate that I consider the ounding of a Catholic paper in Salt Luka diocese, I will mate that I consider the founding of a Catholic paper in Sait Luke most the least of the many hiersings between the least of the many hiersings between the least of the many hiersings between the least two years. Its birth occurred at an opportune time. Its real, in propagating Catholic truth, has had, since its inception, my bearty, though silent approval. I helieve with Our Holy Father that 's good Catholic journal is a perpetual mission in a partiel, and that I will serve as a question hox, at all times, for anxious inquivers. In my visitations I shall hippe to find The intermountain Unicolic in the hones of every Catholic family. Its mission is to expouse truth, lustice and moratity, and all devoted pricets will find it in able cooperator in their missionnary work. It is may wish that all my pricets and the lasty entrusted to my charge should cocurrage your soble effort and that of the generous founder of The Intermountain Catholic. Yours sincerely.

THE POPE'S ADMONITION.

A Catholic newspaper in a parish is a perpetual mission. Let all who truly and from their souls dealer that heligion and society defended by human intellect and literature should flourish, strive by their liberality to guard and protect the Catholic press, and let every one in proportien to his theome support them with his money and influence, for to those who devote themselves to the Catholic press we ought by all means to bring helps of this kind, without which their industry will either have no results or uncertain and miserable ones.

Naturally the vision of Secretary Hay extended over our recently acquired possessions, and the great future waiting for their inhabitants if they would be see us eye to eye. "We have opened our doors to the people of Hawall," said Mr. Hay, "and accepted the responsibility of the Philippines which Providence imposed on us." This, is taking liberties with Providence which could be easily turned from blasphemy into humor by the only Chauncey Depew. Incidentally Mr. Hay alluded to the isthmian canal, but made no mention of the treaty, just concluded, which bears his name. It is just as well he did not, considering it is really the treaty which the United States senate suggested in opposition to the plans of both Mr. Hay and Lord Pauncefore.

The paragraph which the daily press considers the most important in Mr. Hay's peroration, so much so that it is enclosed in border type, is this:

"No wantonness of strength will ever aduce us (United States) to drive a mande as (United States) to drive a hard bargain with another nation because it is weak, nor will any fear of ignoble criticism tempt us to insult or defy a great power because it is friendly.

A new phase of the situation has just devolved. It is learned Chinese must be excluded, has but one question to decide—the best methed of accomplishing that end. If he believes that the Geary law has weak points he will favor its re-enactment, with the loopholes, which the opposition has pointed out, so carefully guarded that the claim can never be made in the future that the law is inmade in the future that the law is inoperative. CHRISTIANITY THE REMEDY. Attorney General Knowlton told the members of the Twentieth Century club of Boston that the suppression of yellow journalism will not conduct to the suppression of anarchy. The evil has its root in our social conditions. Great wealth and abject poverty stand side by side. Those who are in want "brood upon their wrongs until they feel that society is crushing them, and this feeling becomes the instigation of all such utterances and all such deeds. Such men become insane. And what is the remedy? Not legislation against trusts, or reform of social conditions by law. There is only one remedy. Nothing but a better humanity, nothing but a higher place of duty to others imprinted in every man's breast. Nothing but the education of America in what, for convenience, we call Christianity. It is only by the love of man to man, by the absence of greed or selfishness, arrrogance and pride that anthis feeling becomes the instigation recent history? No one conversant with archy is going to be remedied."

Let us beware how we give much care or thought to anything but the perfecting of our hidden life. What else is worth living for? What else shall endure at Christ's coming? Let us live ever waiting for that hour. If crosses, or contradictions, or troubles come do not murmur or chafe against them. Take them caimly, and accept them thankfully.

There are many reasons why it is incapedient for the Boers to inflict well deserved reprisals on their savage enemies, so long as the latter hold in prison thousands of helpless women and children, whom they would promptly slaughter if the Boers offered to take vengeance for Kitchener's barbarous hanging of so-called "rebels." Those women and children are aready being decrmated by famine and disease, deliberately planned by their judical, and the callons world looks on indifferently, as it would look on even if the massacre of American and French prisoners in the hell of Dartmoor eighty-six years ago were to be re-enacted in the prison pens of South Africa.—Plot.

Among the thousands of shining lights of the A. P. A. who have been compelled to lide their brilliancy in the madhouse, the penitentiary or the grave, it is singular how many of them were abandoned by their wives before their public colingse came. This has been the case here in St. Louis to an astonishing extent. The A. P. A. coroner, Wait, was deserted by his wife. A half dozen German infidels with unspellable and unpronounceable mames had the same experience. Claude Duval shot himself loot week after an unsuccessful attempt to in-duce life wife to return to him. Someone should write the history of the dispersion of the A. P. A.—Western Watchman.

The sumptuous feasts given by Mr. Plerpont Morgan in this city during the late. Protestant Episcopal convention were severely reprobated by the Rev. Dr. Hodges of Baltimore in a recent address. Dr. Hodges was a delegate to the convention, but was not mentioned among those bidden to the sybaritte functions arranged by Mr. Morgan. That circumstance, however, is neither here nor there. His objection to the lavishness of these bunquets, at which wine costing 38 a glass, wholesale, was consumed by esclesinsifical guests, is that its sensuitional nature diverted public interest from the legitimate attractions of the convention, just as the assistious exploitation of the Morgan personality focused popular at legilimate attractions of the convention, just as the assiduous exploitation of the Morgan personality focused popular attraction on that gentleman to the neglect of the convention itself. Dr. Hodges believes that the church congress would have been in every way a greater success, under the circumstances, without Mr. Morgan's presence than it was with it. The famous banker and promoter was altogether too big a "feature for such a gathering. The consensus of opinion among ordinary delegates who have given public expression to their views on the subject since appears to be that, over and above the social edit of the whole affair, the convention was a distinct fall-are. DOUBTFUL ADVICE.

A story is told of a man who went to see a doctor. The doctor examined him carefully, and, with a grave face, told him that he was very Ill, and asked if he had consulted anyone else. "Oh," said the man. "I went to see a druggist and saked his advice, and he". "Druggist" the doctor broke in angrily. "What was the good of that? The best thing you can do when a druggist gives you a bit of advice is to do exactly the opposite." "And he," the patient continued. "advised me to come to you."

by Henry F. Bowers, founder and supreme president of the A. P. A., which contains falsehoods enough within the empass of a few paragraphs to make the father of lies himself envy a favorite son. The "free and independent nation of America" owes its existence to Freemasonry; the Battle of Bunker Hill was the triumph of Irish Drangemen over Irish Catholics; Cringemen over Irish Catholics; Presidents Lincoln and Gardield were assasshated because they refused to recognize the Papal delegate; "Rome" bew up the Maine, because President McKinley would not keep his alleged promise to Archbishop Ireland, that there should be no war with Spain; and finally President McKinley was murdered by a Catholic, the papil of a parochial school, for refusing to appoint, winding arms and sucking his point Archbishop Ireland on the papil of a parochial school, for refusing to appoint. a parochial school, for refusing to appoint Archbishop Ireland on the commission to adjust matters in Porto Rico and the Philippines. Mr. Bowers having, rather inconsistently, as we have seen, intimated the adhesion of Catholics to the causes of American independence, and chuckled a little at one defeat which they sustained, notes as a "significant fact," that only one of more and more the wretched man's master, clogsing his liver, rotting his kidneys, decaying his heart and art teries, stucefying and starving his brain, choking his lungs and starving his brain, choking his lungs and expension, choking his lungs and expension, choking his lungs and expension in the brain, choking his lungs and expension in the brain, choking his lungs and expension of his grave at a fair altitum more about the history of the country, of which he is a self-constituted and suspiciously demonstrative dead and suspiciously demonstrative defender, he would know that one was a fair altoment for the small American Catholic population of those days and for their dearth of men of property like Carroll. Their representation in the Revolutionary army, however, was out of all proportion to their numbers, being, it is estimated, one-thid of the whole number of troops. He would know, moreover, that there was no Papal Delegate in the United States in Lincoln's or in Garfield's day, not incompatible, but that an historical survey would reveal the fact that the best part of the world's work in art, it letters and industrial achievement has been done by Catholics. In support of his contention, he cited such men as a "significant fact" that only were Catholicity and Brains." His thesis was that not only were Catholicity and brains of the Halian of the Revolutionary army, however, was no Papal Delegate in the United States in Lincoln's or in Garfield's day, not high intellectual attainments not incompatible, but that an historical survey would reveal the fact that the best part of the world's work in art, it letters and industrial achievement has been done by Catholics. In support of his contention, he cited such men as a "significant fact" that only expension of those days and brain of the fail the done have defender. The would know,
